

It is the duty of the Attorney General to see that the laws of the United States are faithfully executed. He is the chief law officer of the Government and is responsible to the President for the proper administration of the law.

The Attorney General is also the head of the Department of Justice, which is one of the executive departments of the Government. He is responsible for the management and control of the Department and for the proper administration of the law. He is also responsible for the supervision of the United States Marshals and the United States Prisoners.

The Attorney General is also the head of the United States Department of Justice, which is one of the executive departments of the Government. He is responsible for the management and control of the Department and for the proper administration of the law. He is also responsible for the supervision of the United States Marshals and the United States Prisoners.