

THE VERIFICATION OF THE DATE

THE VERIFICATION OF THE DATE
OF THE BIRTH OF THE
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

CHAPTER I

The first of the two conditions in the case is that the date of the birth of the President of the United States should be ascertained. This is done by the examination of the records of the State of New York, which are preserved in the State Archives. The records of the State of New York are preserved in the State Archives, and the date of the birth of the President of the United States is ascertained by the examination of these records.

The second of the two conditions in the case is that the date of the birth of the President of the United States should be ascertained. This is done by the examination of the records of the State of New York, which are preserved in the State Archives. The records of the State of New York are preserved in the State Archives, and the date of the birth of the President of the United States is ascertained by the examination of these records.

The date of the birth of the President of the United States is ascertained by the examination of the records of the State of New York, which are preserved in the State Archives. The records of the State of New York are preserved in the State Archives, and the date of the birth of the President of the United States is ascertained by the examination of these records.

JAMES M. SMITH

VERIFICATION

DATE OF THE BIRTH OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

1800