

WHITE PAPER

THE WHITE PAPER MANUFACTURING COMPANY
INCORPORATED IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK NEW YORK, N. Y.

White Paper is made from the best quality of raw cotton linters, which are cleaned and then broken into small pieces. These are then mixed with water and passed through a series of rollers to form a continuous sheet of paper. The paper is then dried and finished to the desired weight and texture.

White Paper is used for a wide variety of purposes, including bookbinding, printing, and general office use. It is known for its smooth texture and uniform color. The weight of the paper is measured in pounds per ream, and the texture is described as fine, medium, or heavy.

White Paper is available in a variety of weights and textures, and is sold in reams or by the ton. It is a high-quality product that is widely used in many industries.
