

1870

The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the various branches of industry and commerce. It is found that the country has made considerable progress in all these respects since the year 1860. The population has increased, the land has been cultivated more extensively, and the manufactures and commerce have flourished.

The second part of the report contains a detailed account of the various branches of industry and commerce, and the progress of each. It is found that the most important branches are agriculture, manufactures, and commerce. Agriculture has made considerable progress, and the land has been cultivated more extensively than ever before. Manufactures have also made considerable progress, and the country has become a great manufacturing power. Commerce has also flourished, and the country has become a great commercial power.

The third part of the report deals with the state of the public debt, and the progress of the various branches of the public service. It is found that the public debt has increased, but that the progress of the various branches of the public service has been such as to justify the increase. The public service has been conducted with economy and efficiency, and the country has made considerable progress in all these respects since the year 1860.

The fourth part of the report contains a summary of the various branches of industry and commerce, and the progress of each. It is found that the country has made considerable progress in all these respects since the year 1860, and that the progress has been such as to justify the increase of the public debt.